Take me out to the Ballgame

Playing around with the sports-music connection

Saturday, May 3, 7:30PM

While not technically sports-themed, you'll definitely have a ball at our spring Take Me Out to The Ballgame concert! We're exploring questions that cross the sports and music worlds: Who writes the rules? Who referees? What happens when rules are broken? Who really knows the "score"?

Both concerts will be performed in person at the Presbyterian Church of Chestnut Hill, 8855 Germantown Avenue, Philadelphia, and live streamed. As we get closer to the concert dates, tickets will be available at PhilomusicaChorale.org or directly from singers.

The Chorale is so grateful for the community that has sustained us over these 45 seasons! We hope you will keep us in mind as you decide on your philanthropic gifts this year!

We look forward to seeing you in February and May – and for our annual holiday singing in Chestnut Hill on December 18 of this year.
